

■ ANA MÍRIA DOS SANTOS CARVALHO CARINHANHA

Ana Míria dos Santos Carvalho Carinhanha is a mediator, artist, lawyer, and doctoral student in Law at the Universidade Federal do Rio de Janeiro and in Social and Legal Sciences in the Graduate Program in Sociology and Law at the Universidade Federal Fluminense. She is also a researcher with the Research Group in Criminology (GPCRIM-UEFS/UNEB), the Research Group on Sexuality, Law and Democracy (SDD-UFF), and the research group Anastácia Bantu (UFF). She holds a Master of Criminology from the Faculty of Law and Criminology at the Université Catholique de Louvain (2014). She has graduated in Law from the Universidade do Estado da Bahia (2011) and in Arts, with an emphasis on Politics and Management of Culture, from the Universidade Federal da Bahia (2011). She is a member of Black Initiative for a New Drug Policy (INNPD).

■ ANA PAULA SCIAMMARELLA

Ana Paula Sciammarella is a professor at the Universidade Federal do Estado do Rio de Janeiro (UNIRIO) and holds a PhD and master's in Sociology and Law at the Universidade Federal Fluminense (PPGSD/UFF). She is a researcher at the Research Center on Legal Practices and Institutions (NUPIJ/UFF). She is a member of the following research groups: Studies and Research in Social Struggles (NELUTAS/UNIRIO) and Sociology of Law (NSD/UFF). Her research holds an emphasis on issues related to gender, the judiciary, access to justice, and conflict management. She currently coordinates the Legal Practice Unit of UNIRIO and coordinates the Justice Forum Project.

■ CAROLINE BOLETTA

Bachelor's in International Relations from Rural Federal University of Rio de Janeiro. Researcher in the group "Discourse, Social Media and Socio-political Identities" (CPDA-UFRRJ). She was a FAPERJ Fellow, researching

>> EDITORS AND REVIEWERS

the international coverage of Dilma Rousseff's impeachment. Currently, she is interested in the socio-environmental impacts of mining and international political economy. She is a member of the Justice Forum Project.

■ DAVID WISEMAN

Professor David Wiseman is an associate professor in the Faculty of Law at the University of Ottawa. He joined the faculty as an assistant professor in 2010 and teaches first year Property and Access to Justice courses, as well as upper year courses in Trusts and Elder Law. Professor Wiseman is joint co-ordinator of the J.D. Program's Social Justice Option and the co-chair of the Admissions Committee. Professor Wiseman is also a member of the Faculty of Graduate and Postdoctoral Studies. Professor Wiseman's principal areas of research and activity are access to justice, social and economic human rights, and the institutional competence of courts in Charter litigation.

■ ÉLIDA LAURIS

Élida Lauris has a Bachelor of Law and a Master of Human Rights and Social Relations from Federal University of Pará, Brazil and has pursued doctoral studies at the Centre for Social Studies with the University of Coimbra. She was Executive Coordinator of the ALICE Project, developing her post-doctoral research at the University of Coimbra. She was Executive Secretary of the Ministry of Women, Racial Equality, and Human Rights in Brazil. She coordinated the Justice Forum and is currently coordinator of the NGO Terra de Direitos.

■ EMILIANO LITARDO

Emiliano Litardo is a lawyer and professor (UBA, UNTREF). He pursued graduate studies in Human and Women's Rights at the Universidad de Chile. He is a master's student at the Universidad de Buenos Aires and a legal and feminist activist in socio-sexual diversity. He is a member of Lawyers for Sexual Rights (Abosex) and of the Association for the Struggle of the Travesti and Transsexual Identity (ALITT). He is a researcher on issues of human rights and sexual rights and a co-editor of the Gender Identity Law of Argentina (2012).

&gt;&gt; EDITORS AND REVIEWERS

■ FABIANA SEVERI

Fabiana Severi is a professor in the undergraduate and master's programs at the Public Law Department of the Ribeirão Preto's Faculty of Law at the Universidade de São Paulo (USP). She is professor of human rights at the FDRP-USP (2017). She is responsible for the disciplines of Law and Gender Relations, General Theory of the State, Human Rights, and Constitutional Law. She carries out research and activities related to the following topics: feminist legal criticism, access to justice for women, and democratic theories. She leads the USP Research Group on Human Rights, Democracy, and Inequalities. She also participates in the Lei Maria da Penha Law Consortium for the end of gender-based violence against women. She is a member of the research group Periferias with the Institute for Advanced Studies (IEA) of USP.

■ JOÃO VELLOSO

João Velloso is an associate professor at the Faculty of Law of the University of Ottawa. He teaches sentencing and sanctioning, legal research methods, criminology, and socio-legal studies. He has a multidisciplinary background in law, criminology, sociology, anthropology, and communication. He holds a Master of Socio-legal Studies from the Universidade Federal Fluminense in Brazil and a Ph.D. in Criminology from the University of Ottawa. Mr. Velloso was a postdoctoral researcher at the Centre de Recherche en Droit Public (CRDP) of the Université de Montréal in 2014 and 2015, working on the criminalization of protesters during the G20 in Toronto (2010) and the 2012 Quebec student protests (Printemps Érablé).

■ JOSÉ RICARDO FERREIRA CUNHA

José Ricardo Ferreira Cunha is an associate professor at the Faculty of Law at the Universidade do Estado do Rio de Janeiro. He holds a Bachelor of Law from the Universidade Federal do Rio de Janeiro (1993), a Master's Law from the Pontifícia Universidade Católica do Rio de Janeiro (1996), and a doctorate in law from the Universidade Federal de Santa Catarina (2003). His research has an emphasis on the philosophy of law and he works mainly on the subjects of human rights, judiciary, ethics, and law theory. He is Editor of the Law and Praxis Journal.

&gt;&gt; EDITORS AND REVIEWERS

■ JUANITA CUÉLLAR BENAVIDES

Juanita Cuéllar Benavides holds a PhD in Social Sciences in Development, Agriculture and Society from the Universidade Federal Rural do Rio de Janeiro (UFRRJ). She also has a degree in Political Science from the Universidad Nacional de Colombia (2006) and a Master of Social Sciences from the UFRRJ. She is a member of the Studies Group on Discourse at UFRRJ. Her main interests are the topics of access to land and agrarian reform from a Latin American perspective. She is currently professor at the Universidade Federal de Uberlândia. She is member of the Justice Forum Project.

■ LUCERO IBARRA

Lucero Ibarra is a professor-researcher at the Center for Research and Teaching in Economics (CIDE-Mexico). She holds a PhD in Law and Society at the University of Milan (2015), a Master of Sociology of Law at the Oñati International Institute for the Sociology of Law (2010), and an undergraduate degree in Law at the Universidad Michoacana de San Nicolás de Hidalgo (2008). She is co-editor of Sortuz Oñati Journal of Emergent Socio-Legal Studies and a founding member of the Latin American Network on Sociology of Law and the Collective Emancipations on Critical Studies of Law and the Humanities. She has developed and published research on intellectual property, cultural policy, women on the legal profession, and feminist mobilization.

■ MANUEL GÁNDARA CARBALLIDO

Manuel Gándara Carballido is currently an associate member of the Support Network for Justice and Peace, an associate member of the Instituto Joaquín Herrera Flores. He is a professor in the Human Rights, Interculturality and Development program, and in the doctorate program in Legal and Political Sciences at the Universidad Pablo de Olavide, Sevilla. He is also a visiting professor at the Universidade Federal do Rio de Janeiro. He has experience in Philosophy and Law, with an emphasis on social philosophy and works mainly on the following topics: human rights, critical theory, human rights education, critical theory of human rights, and development.

&gt;&gt; EDITORS AND REVIEWERS

■ MÔNICA DE MELO

Mônica de Melo is currently an assistant professor of Constitutional Law in undergraduate and graduate studies at the Pontifícia Universidade Católica de São Paulo (PUC-SP), and a public defender in the state of São Paulo. She is also a coordinator of the Justice Forum Project. She has experience in law, with an emphasis on constitutional law and works primarily on the following themes: human rights, discrimination, and women's rights.

■ PIERRE NOREAU

Pierre Noreau is a full professor at the Université de Montréal's Centre de recherche en droit public (CRDP) since 1998. A political scientist and jurist by training, his particular interests lie in sociology of law. His empirical research is concentrated on the functioning and evolution of the judicial system, non-contentious conflict resolution, access to justice and political mobilization of the law, ethno-cultural diversity from the perspectives of legal pluralism, as well as the study of institutionalization processes regulating social relationships. His recent work focuses on family mediation, community justice, how individuals in the penal system enact laws, the relationship between cultural communities, and the rights and conditions associated with interdisciplinary research in law. Pierre Noreau is a jurist with a doctoral degree from the Institut d'Études Politiques in Paris.

■ RAÚL LLASAG FERNÁNDEZ

Raúl Llasag Fernandez is kichwa of the Indigenous Panzaleo people from Ecuador which is part of the Confederation of Peoples of Kichwa Nationality of Ecuador (ECUARUNARI) and of the Confederation of Indigenous Nationalities of Ecuador (CONAIE). He is a researcher at the Center for Social Studies (CES) of the University of Coimbra. He integrated the research project, "ALICE - Strange Mirrors, Unsuspected Lessons: Leading Europe to a New Way of Sharing the World Experiences" and studied "Indigenous Justice and Plurinationality" in Ecuador and Bolivia. He is a professor of plurinationality, multiculturalism, and indigenous justice at the Simon Bolivar Andean University, based in Ecuador.

■ RODOLFO LIBERATO DE NORONHA

Rodolfo Liberato de Noronha is professor of Sociology and Legal Anthropology at Universidade Federal do Estado do Rio de Janeiro (UNIRIO). He holds a doctorate (2014) and a master's (2009) in Sociology and Law from Universidade Federal Fluminense (UFF). He is a member of the research group of Study and Research in Social Struggles (NELUTAS) and the Amarelido de Souza Popular Legal Advisory Center (NAJUP). He studies and works in the areas of human rights, violence, the judicial system, empirical research, and teaching in law.

>> EDITORS AND REVIEWERS

■ ROSY LAURA CASTELLANOS MARIANO

Rosy Laura Castellanos Mariano currently chairs the Institute for Research and Studies in Culture of Human Rights (CULTURA DH). She is currently advisory councilor of the National Human Rights Commission in Mexico. Her professional career and experience have been in the field of non-governmental organizations, government institutions, and international organizations. She is the founder of Incide, Desarrollo y Estrategias en Comunicación and belongs to the Network of Professors and Researchers in Human Rights and to the UNESCO Chair in Human Rights at UNAM. She has acted as an advisor to several governments in Mexico and Latin America on the design of public policies that focus on human rights, gender, equality, and non-discrimination.

■ VINÍCIUS ALVES BARRETO DA SILVA

Vinícius Alves Barreto da Silva is a PhD student in Law at the University of Ottawa, Canada. Ontario Trillium Scholar. He has a Master of Theory and Philosophy of Law (2017) and a Bachelor of Law from the Universidade do Estado do Rio de Janeiro (2014). He is Coordinator of the Justice Forum Project. He researches the relationship between globalization and the production of legal knowledge about developing countries. He also studies empirical research on political relations in institutions focused on an access to justice, particularly the Public Defender's Office in Brazil and other Latin American countries.

■ XIMENA CUADRA MONTOYA

Ximena Cuadra Montoya is a doctoral candidate in political science at the University of Quebec in Montreal. Her research topic focuses on Indigenous issues in socio-environmental conflict contexts. In particular, she is interested in the questions and responses of indigenous movements to extractivism. She holds a master's degree in political science from the University of Quebec in Montreal (2014). Her research thesis is entitled “Radical Pluralism and Decolonization in Indigenous Mobilizations Against the Extractive Industry: Analysis of Two Cases in Chile and Quebec.” She also holds a master’s degree in sociology from the University of Barcelona (2011) and a bachelor’s degree in sociology from the University of Concepción in Chile (2003).

>> EDITORS AND REVIEWERS

